Thu Minh is one of Vietnam's most celebrated music icons, widely regarded as the "Queen of Dance-Pop" and "Vietnam's Celine Dion." Known for her extraordinary soprano range and electrifying stage presence, she has shaped the sound of Vietnamese pop for over three decades — and continues to do so from her base in Singapore.

Her 2006 breakthrough single "Chàng Gió" won Song of the Year, and her album "Thiên Đàng" established her as a pioneering force introducing electronic dance music to Vietnam. In 2012, her eighth studio album "Body Language" became one of the most influential records in Vietnamese pop history.

Beyond performance, she has served as a judge and mentor on Vietnam Idol, The Voice Vietnam, Vietnam's Got Talent, and So You Think You Can Dance, cultivating a new generation of artists including Trúc Nhân, Hương Tràm, Ali Hoàng Dương, Trấn Thành, and Vũ Thảo My.

“

An extraordinary talent — a voice that transcends borders, carrying the soul of Vietnam into every note, every stage, every heart she touches.
